GENEALOGY WORKSHOP FEATURING TONY BURROUGHS AND LAHNICE HOLLISTER

Join us at the Headquarters Library on March 9 and 10 for a two-day workshop focusing on beginning genealogy, African American Genealogy Research and using DNA to trace your family tree. The event will feature internationally known genealogist, author and consultant, Tony Burroughs, and local genealogist, Lahnice Hollister. All lectures are free and open to the public.

On March 9 at 7:00 p.m. Tony Burroughs will present 'Black Roots: Tracing the Family Tree.' This will be a fun, inspirational talk for beginners and people with no knowledge of genealogy research. It will contain humorous stories of research and how an important 100 year old riddle was solved, mending bad family feelings. It contains easy, practical methods and sources that anyone can use the next day to begin researching their family history.

On March 10 at 9:30 a.m. Tony Burroughs will present 'Adding DNA to Genealogy.' Using DNA with genealogy is so popular in the newspapers and television, that many think DNA is genealogy. DNA is not genealogy.

DNA can sometimes be used with other resources in your genealogical research. The questions are: What is DNA? When do you use DNA? What are the different DNA tests for genealogy? And what are DNA's limitations? The presentation will also cover DNA companies, DNA tools, learning about genetic genealogy and devising a strategy to use DNA.

At 11:00 a.m. Lahnice Hollister will present 'Goggans and Goggins of South Carolina: DNA Helps Document the Basis of an Emancipated Family's Surname.' Based off her findings that were published in the National Genealogical Society Quarterly, the speaker will tell how she found her enslaved South Carolina family, including the basis of the family's surname.

And finally at 1:30 p.m. Tony Burroughs will present 'Tracing My South Carolina Roots.' Tracing African American ancestors from the north, backward into Spartanburg, Union, Richland and Edgefield Counties, solving many problems, but creating more questions. Tony Burroughs will be available after the event for a book signing.
